F O R E W O R D . . .

LAST SEPTEMBER we embarked on our yearly voyage with the hope of sailing triumphantly over all shoals and reefs and of at last reaching our goal. For some of us the journey was long and the seas were rough; others found easier and better routes. But even though our paths varied and a few of us were at times in danger of capsizing, we have reached our destination safely.

WE HAVE GAINED not only the satisfaction of arriving at our port, but en route we have gained many new friends, not only among the captain, the first mate, and the crew, but among our fellow passengers.

IN THE HOPE of preserving forever in your memories the record of the trip, we have compiled and are presenting to you this Harper Shield.

D E D I C A T I O N

TO MISS MARY SHERIDAN, friendly and beloved First Mate of our Good Ship Harper, we dedicate this 1936 edition of The Shield.

WE WISH to acknowledge the quiet efficiency with which Miss Sheridan handles the problems that are hers and the spirit of friendliness which enhances all of her contacts.

MISS SHERIDAN took her position beside Captain Deaver only a year ago; already she has won a high place in the esteem of all who know her.

THE CAPTAIN SPEAKS

THE CREW of the good ship "Shield" have requested a few words of greeting and farewell from the Captain.

IN THESE stormy times when the passengers, our graduates, alight on the foreign shore known as "The World" and strike out on their own, the world seems quite forbidding. Lucrative employment is almost out of the question. Continuation of their education in other institutions is often difficult. Absolute unemployment is disspiriting and hazardous. The best advice that an elder can give must be very general.

THAT THE three hundred graduates in the two classes of this school year will find their places as quickly as possible and be happy in their life's work is, of course, the earnest wish of all of us who have had anything to do with their high school education. They must have courage, industry and fortitude. The work of the world is not yet done. There are opportunities for usefulness and success even though these opportunities may be difficult to discover.

THE OLD-FASHIONED virtues of honesty, industry, courtesy and usefulness are particularly essential to one's success in these days of sharp competition. As you leave our ship and step ashore, our good wishes and best hopes go with you. May your life's work be of such a nature as to bring joy and satisfaction to yourselves and all those whom you serve as fellow-citizens.

THE HARPER FACULTY

FROM THE time the S. S. Harper pulled in her gangplank and set her sails for the high seas, a particularly fine and highly regarded captain has directed her course. Mr. Arthur Deaver has been not only the finest of leaders but the best of friends and counsellors.

ASSISTING MR. DEAVER at the helm is Miss Mary Sheridan, who became First Mate at the beginning of our last year's voyage.

MISS HELEN McCARTIN and Mr. Arthur Schreuder have handled the work of the administrative office during the last months of our cruise. Mr. Francis B. McKeag, former office administrator, was transferred to another ship.

THE SOMETIMES unpleasant tasks of student counsellors have been divided

Row 2—Kane, Schilke, Egan, Kesner, Morris, Freestrom, Reinhardt, Hedeen.
Row 1—Kraus, Heineck, Hensleigh, Mills, Sheridan, Hintz, Harrison, Hamilton.

Row 2—Ried, Muldoon, Tracy, Schreuder, Silverman, Stanek, Shortall, Tierney, Mahoney.

between two committees. During the September-February semester Miss Hughes, Mrs. Hart, and Mr. Kehoe held the positions of grade counsellors. From February to June, Miss Ranquist, Miss Hamilton and Mr. Egan handled this work. As well as the teachers mentioned the entire faculty has participated in keeping our ship to her course.

THIS YEAR'S faculty dinner was held at the Sherry Hotel in December. There were about seventy in attendance. After dinner a program was given under the direction of Mr. Borchardt, everyone forgetting the hour and the responsibilities of the classroom and entering gaily into the enjoyment of entertaining and of being entertained. The affair was managed in a most efficient manner by the social committee, of which Mrs. Carey was chairman.

THE PILOT HOUSE

Our ship sails on, directed in her course by the efforts of those at the helm. Most of those not in contact with Harper's office little realize the intricate problems that daily face the members of the office staff. Perhaps theirs is the work that most requires efficiency and intelligence, patience and foresight.

In four rooms—the general office, the administrative office, Mr. Deaver's office, and Miss Sheridan's office—the activity of the school is centered. School life pursues its course as the great wheel turns under the hand of the captain and his staff.

WE, THE CLASS of January, 1936, set out one eventful morning in September, 1933, on our High School Cruise, which was charted to take us through Sophomore Sea, Junior Sea, and Senior Sea.

DURING THE VOYAGE we found gales and storms interspersed with delightful weather and smooth sailing. As we journeyed on, many personal friendships with the crew and officers were cemented. Prevalent throughout the entire trip was loyalty to our class and to our class colors, red and white, which were flying valiantly at the masthead.

THE CLASS of 1936 sails on! With courage and high idealism we will face the future squarely, for while the voyage of high school life is at an end, new life, full of purpose, beckons us to successful achievement and finer, richer experience.

Margaret Miller—January, 1936

BEYOND THE BLUE HORIZON
THE SENIOR CLASS PROPHECY

PROLOGUE

ON BOARD the S. S. Reprah, ready to set sail on the voyage of life, are the members of the February class of 1936. "All ashore that's going ashore," shouted CAPTAIN PFEILER from the bridge of the S. S. Reprah. "Cast off! Weigh anchor!" One blast of the whistle! Two stub nosed tugs, under the command of the tugmen JAMES FAWCETT and RAY ZABICKI, skillfully maneuvered the ship into the bay, turning its prow toward destination. FIRST MATE KLOTZBUCHER took the wheel with SECOND MATE GILMORE at the controls. As the streamers snapped and the strains of "Anchors Aweigh" began to fade in the distance, MR. DEAVER, MISS SHERIDAN, and the Harper faculty stood on the pier waving farewell to those with whom they had struggled every minute of four long years.

Act I—They Gave Up the Ship.

Setting—On board S. S. Reprah.

Time—Future.

Characters—February class of 1936.

Atmosphere—Sea breezes, waves, laughter, tears, salt water, etc.

THE STEAMER was in mid ocean. WALTER BARZ, creator of Paris sensations, was having a tete-a-tete with the great scientist, ARTHUR OEHME. Seated near by, absorbed in a tourist book, were CLARENCE MARTINEK and AMY LEE MANIFOLD. They were very rudely interrupted by the voice of MAX EPHRAIM, a traveling salesman, "Maybe you would be interested in buying a book, eh?" Fortunately for the tourists, running from the bow came the child actor, ROBERT CARTWRIGHT, pursued by his guardian WILLARD DEVRIES whose private letters he had taken. "Stop that running," shouted JAMES GALLAGHER, the steward, coming from amidships. "You'll knock down our honey-mooners, SAL PERRI and ELLEN BASSO PERRI! ! !"

ON THE STARBOARD, MADAME LUCAS, the rich widow from Chicago, and the tired busines man, ALEX PETROSUS, were engaged in a game of shuffleboard, winning over their opponents FRED CASPER, the movie director of G.M.G. Studios, and the glamorous star, THEODORA SAMPLE. CARMELLA ROBERTS, a comedienne from Hollywood, was watching the game as the manicurist, ALBIE PETRANEK did her nails.

IN THE ship's beauty parlor, KATHLEEN SINCLAIR, dean of Ritzmore School, is seen receiving a facial applied by MARGARET RODDEN. In the next booth RUTH BLOOMQUIST finger waved EDNA SCHMITT, the dime store heiress. Miss LUCILLE GUYNN demanded a manicure because she was to play a solo on her harp at the Captain's Ball.

ALL WAS peaceful and calm when a scream pierced the air (Yow-w-w-w.). SAILOR KRONES yelled, "Man overboard." "Throw out a life preserver," cried ART PIKER.

EILEEN NOBLE, the wealthy MISS RISEN'S social secretary, had jumped overboard to escape from the continuous chatter of STEPHANIE LANKAUSKAS and MARGARET McKILLOP, officers of the Ladies Aide of Seedville, Missouri. ART PIKER came to the rescue and DR. BENSON, with the aid of his capable nurse, IRENE HEDGE, revived her. "You must have quiet for the rest of the trip," bellowed DR. BENSON. No sooner said than done. The nervous wreck, R. RUBENSTEIN, stuck his head out of the cabin window and yelled, "Hi Sailor, what's all this commotion? Can't a fellow have a little quiet around here?"

AT EIGHT BELLS (ding, ding, ding, etc.) everyone gathered in the grand ballroom for the Captain's Ball. MISS VERA AMODEO, the social hostess, welcomed the guests. Soothing music was furnished by FRANK ORRICO and his Orioles with LUCETTA HAUGH, vocalist. Mingling among the dancers were the celebrated Argentine Tango stars, FRIEDA KLEIN and JACK HENDRY, and the season's debutantes, JANET NEUMANN dancing with PRINCE YUSKA and DOROTHY NORDER led by ROBERT JOHNSON, the coffee buyer from Brazil.

IN THE LOUNGE the distinguished concert player, MARIA DI GIACOMO, was entertaining a few of the guests with a beautiful selection from, "The Music Goes 'Round and Around." MARJORIE GILLESPIE, an interior decorator, and a commercial artist, PAULINE GEIGNER, were seated on the divan sipping tea and listening to the music, where they were joined by BERNICE PETRAUSKI, a Michigan Avenue seamstress.

AS THE MUSIC ceased in the grand ballroom, HELEN MURANY, the professional model, escorted by JOHN EBNER, the notorious banana buyer, gracefully walked across the floor to the Captain's table. They were greeted by the Captain, the purser, EDWARD DAY and a line of verse from JULIUS CAESAR CHAP. With the rolling of drums, ten flashing beauties appeared on the dance floor. Keeping in step with BETTY GIERSE, the leader, were GRACE KIPP, FLORENCE MILLER and MARIE NIMZ, who gave a wonderful performance. With the conclusion of the dance, LUCETTA HAUGH was brought into the spotlight. Her voice thrilled the audience as she sang, "At Dawning." Just as the last notes died away, in dashed CHIEF ENGINEER BERNARD ANDERSON shouting, "Captain, the oiler, TOM DELMONTE has lost control of the valves and the boiler is going to explode!!!" The alarm was sounded! Five short blasts of the ship's whistle pierced the air! The crowd was frantic!! A number of cries were heard. "All hands on deck!" "Be calm, the crews will take care of you!" "Women and children first!" "Go to your station!"

ROBERT POMMERING, a deck hand, scrambled up the stairway to the radio room where he notified EVELYN STRONER to send out an S.O.S. It was too late! HAROLD JOHNSON and CHESTER GRADOWSKY were lowering the life boats. Running from cabin to cabin, STEWART SCHOIJ made sure that everyone had been warned. The sky was in flames!! LEROY THEILEN, the stowaway, came out of his hiding place and jumped overboard. Pop! The ship blew up.

Act II—Treasure Island.

Setting—Any island in the South Seas.

Time—Next day.

Characters—Same.

Atmosphere—Swaying palm trees, cocoanuts, monkeys, swishing fluffy grass skirts, kootchy-koo dancers or what have you.

IN THE CENTER of a large clearing suspended by chains hung a large caldron filled with boiling hot water (bubble, bubble). GUST CHRISTAKES and ALBERT GRANATA were seasoning the water. "Not too much salt, these Americans are very salty", said EDWARD BOPP, Chief Cannibal, who was carefully attended by his two slaves, SYLVESTER BEINER and ALBERT BUDRIS. DAVID PARKE and his daughter, LOUISE ALEXANDER PARKE were tied to near-by trees. The missionary, PARKE, was very miserable. A group of native women, ETHEL DWYER, GENEVIEVE FISH, and ELSIE FRANK led by Witch Doctor, JOHN MEYERS, did a ceremonial dance. ETHEL SCOLUM, the Chief Cannibal's mother-in-law, led ELSIE NYQUIST and HAZEL REICHARD in a death chant. Running up from the path that led to the shore, JOHN KUBILUNAS, another cannibal, shouted, "Hey, Boss! White men and women—out of the sea."

IN THE meantime, ANN KELLY, a champion swimmer, was bringing in ETHEL KNUDSEN, a newspaper reporter, who had been knocked unconscious by a piece of drift wood. THELMA BJERKE and VIRGINIA KELLEY helped revive MISS KNUDSEN. The survivors of the wreck decided to explore the island. After walking a while, they came upon GLENN JETT, the great woman hater, whose acquaintance they had made on board. With the mutual agreement of LEAVING HARPER is going to be much more difficult than we had anticipated. It is an arduous task saying goodbye to both our undergraduate friends and teachers.

WE, THE CLASS of June, 1936, extend our sincerest appreciation to Mr. Deaver and the faculty, whose seeds of effort, we hope, have not been sown in vain.

MERE WORDS are, beyond a doubt, inadequate in expressing our deepest and sincerest gratitude to you, Harper, for all the grand opportunities you have so graciously offered us; it is impossible to sufficiently acknowledge the inspiration for future life which our high school life has given us.

Frank L. Marrantino,
President, Class of June, 1936.

THE SENIOR CLASS PROPHECY

TIME IS the greatest mystery known to mankind, for time is life and death; it has made man and later claimed him. Is there not some way, some long forgotten passage through which we may enter into the past? It was with this line of argument that I commenced a research, an adventure with time.

IN AN OLD Egyptian book of mysticism I found the object of my search, the long lost formula. Then came days of research for the substances called for by the formula. Hours of preparation followed. A feeling of elation overwhelmed me as I raised the glass to my lips—the indescribable taste, and then the sense of falling, then blackness, then oblivion.

THE FIRST THING that assailed my awakening senses was the smell of incense. Gradually the details of my surroundings became clearer. The formula had been successful! When the first wave of amazement had passed, I ventured forth to explore this old world to which I had been transferred—and before my startled eyes was presented a scene that I never in my wildest dreams ever imagined.

PEOPLE NUMBERING into the thousands were lined along the river Nile. The blare of trumpets, the harsh commands, and the voices of the multitudes blended into great confusion. A victorious admiral was returning with his fleet from a successful campaign against the Phoenicians.

SOMEONE TUGGED at my garments and begged alms in a whimpering voice. Imagine my amazement when on looking down I beheld the face of my old classmate CARL SWANSON.

"WHAT ARE YOU doing here?" I questioned, "Have you too found the secret of time?"

THE BUNDLE of clothes merely looked at me in a puzzled manner so on I went searching the crowds for some other familiar face.

A BLARE of bugles and a sudden opening in the crowd placed in my view the triumphant march of the returning sailors. At its head marched a Nubian slave with three straining lions in leash, and behold, staring at me from the depths of a beplumed helmet was the face of ELMER HULET, and the grinning Nubian presented to my startled gaze the form of ANTIONETTE RUSSO. CLOSELY FOLLOWING the Nubian slaves my eyes beheld the sailors unloading the spoils of war. Leading the group were KEITH LAIS and DAVID ADAIR mercilessly dragging HARRIET HOLMES and EVELYN BRETZ by the hair. Cowering under the whips of EARL HANISCH, ROBERT CURRIE, and HARRY JACOBSEN, I recognized the tortured faces of HELEN BARKLEY, VIVIAN ARNDT, FRANCIS CIBIC, FLORENCE FLECK, MARION JUSTIN, and FLORENCE MONTI.

SUDDENLY I WAS startled by wild shouts and cries. Back aboard ship, mutiny had broken out. Fighting between captives and sailors had begun on deck. I was amazed to see that among the mutineers were HARRY FEE, HILDING ALFREDSON, WILLIAM COOK, KENNETH DORNAN, WARREN GOSS, JOHN MCELLIGOTT, HAROLD PETERSEN, HAROLD VAN PLEW, and MATTHEW LOYAL. I looked toward the other end of the boat and discovered the mutineers about to dispose of THOMAS TREACY, ALICE DARESH, JUNE BOGEN, TED BRATSOS, CARL DOUGHERTY, BERNARD REA, FRANCES KETTERER, and VERONICA MESSETT, by throwing them into the crocodile infested waters. I was relieved to hear the loud splashing of the oars which announced the timely arrival of the Royal Police gig. Standing at the prow of one of the gigs was Chief of Police JOE BELICE shouting to his able assistants, LOUIS DE GRAZIA, EMIL CIEPLAK, TONY FERRARA, DELBERT JOHNSON, EDWARD GALL, JAMES O'DWYER and in the other gig, led by EDMUND FRANCONE, were ROBERT SINGER, JOHN RICCIUTI and FELIX MURAUSKAS.

AFTER THE MUTINEERS had been subdued I wended my way once more toward the market place. With a cry of delight, I perceived JOE COSTA molding pottery in one of the small booths which lined the street. I stopped a moment to converse with him, and was surprised to learn that he had become the master of a large harem among whom were such prominent classmates as FLORENCE CAMER, ANN JUCIUS, MAYBELLE ATEN, ALDONA GURA, MARIE LEONARD, MARY McDONALD, and CATHRYN WALTON.

THE AROMA of baking bread next attracted my attention. Beneath a small shelter, I saw CHARLOTTE SCHLUETER and ELEANOR BOLLBACK kneading bread dough in a large stone bowl, while VERN NEBE and BETTY SHORT squatted before a crude stone oven watching the baking bread. They were so busy they didn't notice me so I continued on my way to a group of women who were busily weaving rugs in the hot sun. Weaving a large rug of oriental pattern sat PEARL SIMONS, PATRICIA GALVIN, AUDREY NELSON, and MILDRED GRAND with MARGARET DRAZEN, their heads bent intently over their work. I then stopped to buy a smaller rug from OLIVE ANDERSON who was the saleswoman of the group.

ACROSS THE NARROW street I heard sounds of heavy pounding which seemed to be coming from a small cobbler's shop. When I investigated I found two former school chums OTTO DE JONG and THOMAS BALENT who seemed to be partners in business. They appeared to be glad to see me and began to introduce me to their apprentices whom I recognized as SYDNEY BLACKWOOD, MELVIN FISCHER, WILLIAM CRUM and RICHARD NEFF.

LEAVING THE market place I wandered at random into a nearby street. It was lined on each side with chattering slaves and unkempt beggars. I was about to hurry through the crowd when two of the beggars pulled at my coat. Needless to say I was surprised when I saw the pitiful faces of RUTH HILL and FLORENCE ANDERSON. I threw them a penny and hurried on. I realized that night was approaching and I began to look about for a place to sleep. An attractive thatched roof house on my right drew my attention because of its unusual cleanliness. I noticed many people standing about in the yard. Apparently they were preparing for a large celebration about to take place. I watched them for awhile until they entered the house, and decided to follow them in. In the low cool room which we entered, I looked about for someone I might know, and then asked a woman standing nearby where I could find the master of the house. She threw her arms about my neck and cried with joy. I recognized her as SOPHIE MATAITAS, the most brilliant student in my history class.

SHE TOOK me by the arm and led me to a small plump fellow dressed in a short, white tunic which fitted close to his neck. He looked a bit different than when I knew him formerly because of his shaven head. Nevertheless, I recognized ROBERT WINDSTRUP. Standing beside him was his tall graceful wife whom I also knew during my days at Harper as JOSEPHINE RICCIUTI. They greeted me heartily, and informed me that there were many more members of our June, 1936, class present. They led me to a group at the far end of the room and re-acquainted me with RUTH LEHMAN who was with EDWARD SCHIED, his brother-in-law DONALD JACOBSON, and his wife, ALICE KRUSE. Others in the group were FRANCES PAWSKI who had lost a great deal of weight, FLORENCE PORCARO who had become a blonde under the Egyptian sun, and ELISE JOHANNES who had giggled all during the conversation.

STANDING ALONG the wall were the well-known faces of WINIFRED CONNOLLY, MARGERY KIEFER, LORRAINE WEBER, MARY LYNCH, MARJORIE ROUSE and ADELINE VESECKY, who were waving large fans to keep the still air moving in the hot room.

IN A FAR CORNER of the room I sighted a shy, lonely and pathetic figure who seemed familiar. When I stood before him, I recognized him as FRANK MARRANTINO. I greeted him with delighted joy, but he blushed and grunted, shrinking into the depths of his chair in deep embarrassment.

FINDING HIM UNSOCIABLE I looked about me for more of my friends, and saw a stern, silent woman sitting rigidly in another corner keeping haughtily aloof from the crowd. On investigation I found her to be JEAN OVERHOLSER, who showed no sign of recognition as I passed.

AT THIS MOMENT the ceremony seemed about to begin. Servants whom I knew formerly as STELLA YVANAUSKAS, ANNA CUSTER, MARION HUHN, GEORGIA KRAMER and MARY MAHER, began to move about with trays on which were cups filled with a dark reddish liquid, giving them to the guests as they seated themselves. I took my place with the other guests and found myself seated beside a distinguished looking gentleman with a flowing beard. He was talking to another person. The voice was the familiar one of ROBERT ALLEN. He pointed out other old acquaintances to me standing about the room. I was surprised to see CHARLOTTE NYDEREK, MARIE LEWIS, CELIA POTH, and JEANETTE ERNST. Sitting near the host was pale, dreamy looking person with a deep spiritual look in her watery blue eyes. My friend announced that it was LAVERNE SCHUMACHER. At this moment the door opened and a group of servants entered bearing among them what seemed to be an open coffin. They walked among the guests, allowing them to peer in upon a beautiful pale, wax figure. When all had seen it I noticed that everyone stood up, and raised his glass to his lips. They were led in the following toast, "Eat, drink, and be merry for tomorrow you may die," by HILDEGARDE ANDERSON. As the servants filed out I recognized several familiar faces as those of HERBERT HOSS, THEODORE APATO, EMMETT DEMPSEY and WILL FIELLMAN.

AT THIS POINT I perceived that an entertainment was about to begin. The master of ceremonies, RAY DENNIS, rose and began announcing the numbers. The first was to be a harp trio to be played by EDWARD HUTTER, BILL BOWDEN, and JAMES TOOLIS. The second part of the program was to be a rhythm dance by MILDRED SOMMER, and MARGARET WATT. Following this was a lute duet by BRUNO PETRAITIS, and JOHN BLASGEN.

THE CONCLUDING selection was a pipe trio by CHARLES TEN BROECK, WOODROW THOMAS, and JOSEPH CHARASKA. When this was finished everyone began to rise, and entered a hallway which led to a large, wide room in which people were already seating themselves along the sides on the floor.

AS I WALKED along looking for a place to sit down, five beautiful girls called to me. As I drew nearer, I realized that they were GENEVIEVE BUHRFIEND, ANNE RECKAS, VIOLET FREDERICKSON, JANE WEHRLE, and BEATRICE MISCHKE. They made a place for me to sit down beside them and immediately I found myself surrounded by more and more girls. I found FLORENCE DUSCHENE and LAVERNE JOYCE on each side of me turning their arms confidently about my neck while in my lap VIOLET KOCHER had deposited herself with grace. Other amorous members of my graduating class, MARGARET ANDERSON, MILDRED FELGENHAUER, and ELVI CLEMENTS stood behind me stroking my hair with gentle fingers. Stammering an excuse, I pulled myself from their detaining grasp, and finally obscured myself in an inconspicuous corner.

EVEN HERE however, I was interrupted by EDWIN BAYOR and RUTH ANDERSON who had taken pity on me and brought me a heaping plate of food. Other of my friends obviously had the same idea, for I saw behind them, HELEN CAREY, who bore two large plates of fruit in each hand. I groaned as I thought of the task before me when I was again assaulted by JAMES KENNEDY who carried several wine glasses on a tray. I placed the glasses with the other offerings on the floor beside me and prepared to begin.

"We live in deeds, not years; in thoughts, not breaths;

In feelings, not in figures on a dial.

We should count time in heart throbs.
He most lives

Who thinks most, feels the noblest, acts the best."

IN THE untimely passing of John Hinshelwood, the class of June, 1936, lost one of its finest students.

RECALLING at this time his presence among us, we wish to dedicate to his memory the senior section of the Shield.

Or bitter seas, or winds that made them wise."

THE TRADITIONS of the 4B class were carried out under the direction of Robert Williams, their president and his able assistants: James Doyle, the vice-president, Edith Coglianese, the secretary, and the treasurer, George Fink.

THE TWO PROJECTS which the class undertook successfully were the spring Hat Sale and the Farewell Party given to the 4A's.

MANY OF the 4B's have participated in the clean-up campaign, operettas, plays, and athletics of the school. Several have been officers of clubs. This gives evidence of many outstanding students who will undoubtedly follow in the successful footsteps of previous graduating classes.

CLASS OF NINETEEN THIRTY-EIGHT

WELL ON their way to a cap and gown go some Four hundred Junior Classmen.

OUR JUNIOR girls make up the greater part of Harper's G.A.A. Board, the Legion of Honor and most of the clubs boast a big Junior Class attendance. Distributed throughout our athletic teams the boys do more than their part in their endeavors to make Harper's name "shine."

GUIDING THEM safely past rocky reefs and through treacherous waters are their seventeen division captains.

CLASS OF NINETEEN THIRTY-NINE

HARPER IS BEGINNING to feel the importance of its six hundred "Sophs."

AT THIS POINT of the Educational Cruise we find them with their "places in the sun" pretty well established.

THE SOPHOMORE CLASS is represented by nearly one hundred students in the Legion of Honor; a number of the boys have succeeded in making many of the junior teams.

OFF! WITH A perfect start and may you finish with the celebrated "perfect landing."

CLASS OF NINETEEN FORTY

THE "FROSH" students number eight hundred and thirteen. They are, by far, the largest class at Harper.

ALMOST ANY CLUB at Harper is open to them, though they are somewhat restricted from athletics until their second year. Meanwhile we find them building their futures by learning the fundamentals of "what makes the wheels go 'round."

TO THOSE who will next semester start more actively to make Harper's name shine; we hope most sincerely for a bright, successful career.

SIXTEEN NAVIGATORS guide them through the first stages of their educational voyage.

THOSE ACTIVITIES in which the Boys' and Girls' Senior Councils engage are very necessary to the efficient existence of any school. The councillors, assisted by Mrs. Harrison and Mr. Egan, serve the school in a number of ways; they welcome incoming freshmen, usher at special school functions, receive the school's visitors, assist the faculty, support Harper activities and encourage school spirit.

ELECTED TO the council this semester were Helen Barkley, Mildred Gehrke, Elsie Jeanette Ernst, Mary Foerster, Mildred Gehrke, Elise Johannes, Helen Meldzius, Sophie Mataitis, Mary Maher, Virginia Paukstis, Elsa Stone, Evelyn Wainwright, Robert Allen, Joseph Crean, Douglas Hepburn, Mike Paule, and Lawrence Roubik.

OFFICERS FROM September to February of the Girls Council, and the Boys Council respectively were: Ruth Bloomquist, Max Ephraim, president; Lucetta Haugh, Earl Hanisch, secretary; Vera Amodeo, Tom Treacy, treasurer. From February to June: Ruth Hill, Earl Hanisch, president; Jeanette Ernst, Carl Swanson, vice-president; Florence Duschene, Anton Spetyla, secretary; Joseph Crean, treasurer.

HIGH STANDARDS of scholarship are encouraged by several of Harper's organizations. This is particularly true of the Legion of Honor, which makes scholastic achievement its sole requisite for membership. A student must have grades of "E" or "S" in all major subjects and must pass in all minors to become a member. Each semester has seen a greater number of Harperites reach this standard; from one hundred and ten students the first semester membership has increased to one hundred and ninety-five.

THE FIRST ACTIVITY of every semester is an honor assembly at which pins are awarded to Legion members. These pins are worn during the semester of membership; when a pin has been worn for four semesters it becomes the property of the student. The names of those belonging to the Legion of Honor are posted in the William Rainey Harper Honor Case.

DURING THE September-February semester the officers were Max Ephraim, president; Bernice Lucas, vice-president; Virginia Griffin, secretary and Bob Windstrup, treasurer. The officers, assisted by appointed class representatives, were the executive committee which planned Legion activities. These students have represented their classes

THE ONE HUNDRED and twenty members of the Home Economics Club have been meeting once a month during the past year. The group is a member of the Illinois Home Economics Club. Miss Hintz and Mrs. Newkirk have supervised the recreational programs in which the club has engaged. In addition to regular meetings there have been several tours made to the Chicago University Campus, the Chicago Lighting Institute and a luncheon and style show at Marshall Field and Company.

THE AMERICAN Home Economics Convention was held at the Palmer House. The club as a member of this organization was represented by Mildred Sommer, and Margaret Watt. Several of the members were chosen to act as Pages at the Convention and attended the sessions for one day. During the Convention several tours were made, one to Mundelein College and another to the Jewel Tea Company.

THE HOME ECONOMICS Club is open to all girls regardless of the type of course they have chosen. Thus, many girls are given an opportunity to partake in the work of the Household Art Department.

OFFICE SECRETARIES

SECRETARIES

ASSISTING IN the secretarial work of Harper's office is a group of girls who are chosen from among those registered in study halls upon the basis of their willingness and ability to work efficiently.

THERE ARE several students each period who help Miss O'Malley and Miss O'Brien with the routine of the general office; there are some who assist Miss McCartin and Mr. Schreuder in their work; others are asked by Miss Sheridan and Mr. Deaver to help in their offices. Work consists, for the most part, in filing, taking phone calls, typing, cutting stencils, carrying messages, and performing other secretarial duties which are necessary for the smooth running of office routine.

THIS EXPERIENCE is especially helpful to those girls who intend to specialize in secretarial work in the future. Not only does it train in efficiency, but it also gives an accurate conception of the type of work expected and the qualifications necessary for secretarial positions.

A SERVICE POINT toward membership in the National Honor Society is awarded for each semester of this work.

MISS SHERIDAN tells us, "We find that these secretaries are able to take dictation and write letters used in the regular work of a business or a school. This practice helps the girls to overcome any nervousness and they tell us the experience is very valuable to them."

THE HARPER COMMERCE CLUB

THE AMALGAMATION of the Commerce Club, the largest charter organization of Harper, to establish one all-school club took place in January, 1936. Mr. Allan B. Churchill, founder of the Commerce Club, is now a member of the Board of Control.

IT IS FITTING at this time to quote the preamble, embodying the principles of the club:

WE, THE MEMBERS of the HARPER COMMERCE CLUB, in order to promote commercial efficiency, to develop our talents, to establish friendships and friendly rivalries, and to perpetuate our interests, purposes, and ideals to our successors, do ordain and establish this constitution and these by-laws.

Row 4—Saelens, McKeon, Panovic, Kodis, Breidigam.
Row 3—Apato, Nix, Peters, Magliano.
Row 2—Helm, Schultz, Specht, Balcitis.

Row 3—Conolly, Felgenhauer, Giblin, Smith, Hicks.
Row 2—Basso, Pavlica, Weidner, Feltz.
Row 1—Horwitz, Roberts, Fawcett, Jordan, Cummings.

DURING THE two years of its existence, the Commerce Club attained a membership of over one thousand, the majority of which were commercial students. Non-commercial students, however, were permitted to join.

THE CLUB was organized and directed by Mr. Churchill of the Commercial Department.

IN ASSEMBLIES presented for Commerce Club members educational movies were shown. Among these were "Safety First," presented by the Chevrolet Company, and "Out Where the West Begins."

The organization further distinguished itself in encouraging scholarship. Trophies were presented by the club to Margaret Baikie, a member of the February, 1935, class; to Muriel Murray, of the June, 1935, class; and to Margaret Miller, of the February, 1936, class; who had the highest scholastic standings in each of their respective classes. The giving of these scholarship trophies each semester has become a tradition of the Harper Commerce Club.

THE COMMERCIAL department has aimed not only to supply the technical training necessary to business but also to promote scholarship and good fellowship among its members.

UNDER THE SPONSORSHIP of Mr. Epsey, the Sachems Club has set itself a program that aims not only to benefit its members but the entire student body as well. The club's charter contains the following purposes: to help promote all student activities; to assist the all-school organization, the Hi-Lites; to promote good fellowship; and to help Harper in the clean-up campaign.

THE SACHEMS have participated in many school activities this year, among which were the clean-up campaign, an amateur show, a debate, trips to radio broadcasting studios.

DURING THE first semester of the past school year the officers were Douglas Hepburn, president; Dorothy Greehn, vice-president; Harriet Schmiecher, secretary; and Lawrence Roubik, treasurer.

HALL GUARD CAPTAINS

ORGANIZED IN September, 1933 for the purpose of maintaining order in the corridors, the hall guard system has been supervised by Mr. Seitz during the past year.

ABOUT THREE hundred students are stationed at hall guard posts during each school day. They aid in regulating hall congestion, direct traffic on the "up" and "down" stairways, check on passes, and guard lockers from intrusion.

HALL GUARD captains supervise each group of hall guards, checking attendance at some time during each period.

FORTY-FIVE of those students who are interested in scientific research comprise the membership of the Botany Club. Since everyone comes into contact daily with botany in some of its phases, the purpose of organization was to apply the information learned in classroom study to everyday activity. Meetings, held every month, are composed of experiments of various types and a program of entertainment.

IN NOVEMBER, the Botany Club visited the flower show at Garfield Park Conservatory. A Christmas party was held in December, at which Santa Claus offered gifts from his grab bag. Games were played, Paul Love and Dorothy Shepherd winning the prizes. The group attended a movie at the Field Museum, where the botany exhibits were also visited. Trips were taken to the Wooded Island in Jackson Park and to Ogden Park.

FROM SEPTEMBER to February these were the officers: Grace Dalleck, president; Marjorie Rouse, secretary; and Ruth Wyrick, treasurer. Assisting the officers in planning the meetings were two committees. The members of the entertainment committee were Gertrude Jones, Doris Fairburn, and Gladys Smrt; of the refreshment committee Virginia Ford, Ruth Luebeck, and Murial Sinclair were members.

MISS KINSEY is the faculty member responsible for directing the activity of this club.

CONCERT ORCHESTRA

DIRECTED BY Captain Rifkind, Harper's concert orchestra has come to fill an important part in school activities. It has furnished music for the presentation of "Tiger House," accompaniments for both "The Belle of Barcelona" and "The Marriage of Nanette," and incidental music for the Parent-Teachers' Association Minstrel Show.

THE SENIOR BAND

HARPER'S CONCERT and military bands are open only to those students who have shown musical ability in the junior and intermediate bands. When thus qualified, students are permitted to try out for the limited number of vacancies.

THE MAIN purpose of this organization is to furnish music at school assemblies, parades and games. The group participates in many contests. They have represented Harper for two successive years in the All-City Band Contest.

CAPTAIN RIFKIND directs the band in its work. He is assisted by these officers: Joe Miulli, First Lieutenant; Louis Orrico, Second Lieutenant; Lester Buckberg, Master Sergeant; Francis Wright and Richard Schulte, Sergeants; Anthony Amodeo, William Berndt, Louis Di Grazia, David Oberg, Chester Patrick, Jack Schreiber and James Warner, corporals; Jack Schreiber and Louis Di Grazia, Librarians; Albert Vare, Publicity Manager; Joe Miulli, Drum Major.

THE VILLAGE folks are preparing to welcome Frederic, who comes to marry the beautiful Countess Heloise. She vows not to remove her veil except to the man she weds. While on her way to the inn, Heloise is kidnapped and held for ransom. Madame Zenobie substitutes Nanette in order to gain access to the Duke's wealth.

REPORELLO, with his band of gypsies and a mysterious girl arrives in the village. This girl is believed to be Heloise. Two girls are presented to the Duke and from them he must choose his wife.

THE LOVERS are happily united and all ends well.

THE GLEE CLUB

THE GLEE CLUB (which is now divided into two groups, the Senior and Junior Choruses) was organized three years ago by Mrs. Frances Carey. Under Mrs. Carey's supervision two operettas, "The Gypsy Queen" and "The Belle of Barcelona" were staged.

THE GLEE CLUB'S original purpose still reigns—that of cultivating musical ability and strengthening the voice faculties. Any student who has a successful try-out may join the club. The songsters participate in many school events. They sing at assemblies, graduations and holiday occasions — especially Christmas.

THE MEMBERS of the cast for "The Marriage of Nannette," presented May 6-7, 1936, in the school auditorium were chosen from this group. Mrs. Hazel Steinfeldt directs the organization.

ON DECEMBER 18, 1935, both Senior and Junior Glee Clubs took part in "The All Chicago Glee Club Contest" at Crane Technical High School. "The Nightingale," the required selection, and "Fast the Tide Was Flowing" by R. V. Williams were rendered by the club.

WILLIAM COOK competed with seventeen Chicago high school boys in a contest conducted by the Glee Club of the Chicago Association of Commerce. His selection was "Give a Man a Horse He Can Ride."

HIGHWAY STAFF

THE HARPER HIGHWAY is a member of the National Scholastic Press asosciation and belongs to the Greater Chicago Press Guild. This year the Highway received an international honor rating from Quill and Scroll, which is an honorary society for high school journalists.

THE STAFF is composed of upper classmen who have shown journalistic ability and who want to use their ability in serving the interests of the school. For the February-June semester the editorial staff was as follows: Earl Hanisch, editor-in-chief; Frances Cibic, Walter Bardauskas, and James O'Dwyer associate editors; Harriet Schiecher, news editor; Ruth Hill and Adeline Lenz, co-editors of the second page; Elise Johannes and Douglas Hepburn, feature page editors; Harry Forsyth and Fred Kosis, co-editors of the sport page.

HARPER PUBLICATION staffs sent delegates to the National Press Association Convention in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, which was held from December 5 to 7. The delegates, Anton Spetyla and Earl Hanisch, learned improved methods in journalistic writing.

ELISE JOHANNES' current news contest national winner, was awarded a Quill and Scroll creative writing gold key. Other winners: Earl Hanisch, second place, news term contest; Mildred Sommer, honorable mention, editorials; Elsie Distefano, honorable mention, ad writing; Elsie Frank, third page editor during the September-February semester, won both a Quill and Scroll key, and a school letter.

HARPER HI-LITES

SEPTEMBER OF this year ushered in the second semester of Hi-Lite activities. This organization was founded last year after many requests from the student body for an all-student civic and booster club. The name Hi-Lites was selected by an all-school vote from a list submitted by pupils. Thus the Hi-Lite club is truly a real Harper institution.

IN ORDER to carry out the purpose for which it has been formed this organization has undertaken many activities in the interest of the school. Among these may be cited the school service bureau; the Hi-Lite dances which are the most popular in the school; the assemblies which feature talented performers and the special ones which are in the form of amateur shows. These shows have disclosed many talented Harper students.

The club also selects "Miss Harper," takes up the Thanksgiving and Christmas collections and handles the P.T.A. drive, the clean-up campaign and numerous other activities of this nature. IN JANUARY the following Hi-Lite officers were elected: Robert Allen became president and George Hedge vice-president, Jack Roddy took over the office of treasurer and Jeanette Senese that of secretary.

AFTER MUCH consideration it was decided in February of this year to merge the all-student organization into one club in the interest of economy. So the Commerce club, the Harper Athletic Association and the Hi-Lites became one organization. The name Hi-Lites was returned for this new and larger organization.

THE CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN

THE CLEAN-UP Campaign is an organized effort to Clean-Up the school, the home and the community.

Directing this work, under the faculty sponsor Mr. Connors, is Dorothy Johnson, general chairman; acting as her assistant is Blanche Johnson. They in turn are competently aided by George Hedge, publicity chairman; Edith Mulqueen, Art chairman; James O'Dwyer, Grammar School Chairman; Marie Lewis, Office chairman; Harry Forsythe, Neighborhood chairman, George Irving, Business chairman; and Michael Paule, Harper High chairman.

PUBLICITY FOR the campaign started in April. Posters were sent as an incentive to Clean-Up, to the five public schools and three Parochial schools which were in Harper's district. A Clean-Up drama written by the chairman was presented.

ANY EFFORT that had been made to Clean-Up had been included in the Report book, the final and organized report on the campaign, and upon which the judges of this contest make their decision. This book carried the theme, "Harper Cleans-Up the World."

ANY STUDENT spending one-hundred hours on any work pertaining to Clean-Up received a school letter in recognition of his work.

SPONSORED by Mr. Borchardt, the Chemistry Club aims to increase student interest in all forms of chemistry.

AT THE MEETINGS, which were held every two weeks, chemical experiments were performed and explained by various members. Mr. Borchardt sometimes gave lectures on practical chemistry and on his experiences in that field.

IN STUDYING some of the more common uses of applied chemistry, the members of the club made several field trips. One of the most interesting of these was a visit to the Liquid Carbonic Ice Corporation, where the students witnessed the processes used in making dry ice. Trips have also been made to the Chicago Union Stockyards, the Argo Starch Company, the Field Museum and the Rosenwald Museum of Natural History.

ANY STUDENT who is interested in the study and application of chemistry, whether enrolled in a chemistry class or not, is eligible for membership. For this reason the program offered is not very technical, allowing members who do not study chemistry to understand the scientific principles demonstrated.

LAST SEPTEMBER the Reserve Officers Training Corps made its entrance at Harper. From a few scattered companies the unit has grown to five well-organized ones.

WITH SERGEANT Wilbur Peshia of Fort Sheridan as military instructor, the unit is engaging in an active program.

Cadets are active in inter-school and city competition, representing Harper both in the city squad meet and in competition against out-of-town schools. Uniforms are worn every Friday at which time inspection is held. News of activities have been posted daily in the metropolitan papers.

HARPER HAS awarded several medals both to cadets and to officers for neatness and efficiency. Each semester the Chicago Tribune presents Harper cadets with ten medals, aiming to develop a greater amount of interest in the R.O.T.C.

THE POLICY of the Reserve Officers Training Corps is to develop leaders for peace and to provide leaders in the time of national distress.

R . O . T . C .

THIS SEMESTER'S officers were led by Cadet Captain Ross Jones, commanding officer. Assisting Captain Jones were First Lieutenants Charles Fallon, adjutant; Paul Love and Charles Specking. AMONG THE CADETS who received comissions as Second Lieutenants are James Redmond, Walter Bardauskas, Leonard Victor.
THE OUTSTANDING activities in which the Harper R. O. T. C. unit participated was the Army Day Parade held last April 6. Among those present the third field artillery, Black horse troupe, 61st coast artillery and the Chicago high schools R. O. T. C. units. Nineteen gun salute greeted the Secretary of War, George H. Dern on one of few visits into our city.
HARPER R. O. T. C. marched in mass formation with Cadet Captain Ross Jones in command.

HARPER'S FIRST year as a senior high school, its new standards of scholarship, new activities, new friendships, new traditions and ideals, was recorded in its first unnamed annual of forty pages.

THE TITLE "Shield" was first used by the second year-book. This was published in the fall of 1934 through the united efforts of the Highway Staff, Miss Gladys Falahey, and a group of ten volunteers with Bernard Chalip as editor.

ENCOURAGED BY the enthusiastic reception of previous issues, the Highway Staff, with Steve Polnisek as editor, planned an eighty page book with scholarship as its theme for June, 1935.

THIS YEAR the growth of the school and its activities has necessitated the separation of the Highway and Shield, and the organization of an independent publication board for the editing of this, the third volume of the Harper Shield.

HARPER SHIELD

THE S. S. SHIELD sails on!
TO THE EDITOR-IN-CHIEF Anton Spetyla goes the credit of planning and constructing all layouts and dummies. It is truly his Shield.
THE WORK of all Editors and Managers together with their many assistants cannot pass unnoticed. The cooperation of the Room Salesman and Assistant Salesman made this publication possible. These special acknowledgments: Write-ups, Dorothy Dietz; Clubs, Alida Ekster; Sales, Lawrence Roubik; Publicity, Frank Marrantino; Music, Lloyd Miller's Musical Mariners; Cover Design and Scenic, Robert Sandin; Division Pages, and all Sketches, Woodrow Thomas, Anton Spetyla, Robert Sandin. The assistance of Mrs. Irene T. McCurry, Art Advisor, was indispensable. Miss Mary Margaret Muldoon, Editorial, and Mr. Edward K. Kimpton, Business, were the faculty advisors.
TWO STAFFS have served the 1936 Harper Shield. Among the prominent seniors who came to the aid of the ship from September to February were: Senior Write-Ups and photography, Vera Amodeo, Maria Di Giacomo; Prophecy, Eileen Noble, Albina Petronek, Florence Risen, Irene Hedge; Club Photography, Robert Cartwright, Edwin Klotzbucher.

FIRE MARSHALS

TO MAINTAIN order and promote safety during fire drills are the duties of the fire marshals.

HARPER'S JUNIOR Fire Marshal who has full command of all other marshals is Carl Swanson. A guard, whose duty it is to see that all students leave the building, is stationed on each floor. Two marshals are posted at each exit. They also see to it that the exit where the supposed fire is, is kept closed.

THE OBJECT of this organization is to entirely vacate the school building in the least possible time. Edmund Francone has been the timekeeper for the September, 1935, to June, 1936, school year.

EVERY TWO weeks the Junior Fire Marshals of the public schools have a meeting at which suggestions are offered to better traffic conditions. These are usually constructive and discussion is given as to the best method of conducting the fire drill.

MARSHALS STATIONED outside the school building have full control of outcoming traffic.

BEFORE THEIR ship has sailed many leagues, the passengers of every liner are forming groups for music, cards, athletics, dramatics. The good ship Harper has been no exception. As each group organized, according to its interest, a sympathetic officer joined it as sponsor.

THESE INTERESTS have ranged from knitting, photography and ping-pong through dramatics and music to the study groups, the languages and science clubs. The bands, opera and glee clubs, and the spot-liters have furnished delightful entertainment to passengers and crew and visitors from other ships and ports. The Highway Staff puts out the bi-weekly ship paper. The Senior Boys' and Girls' Councils assist the officers in caring for the welfare of the passengers and the ship itself.

THERE IS ONE organization, the Hi-Lites, that includes all passengers and officers and works for the good of the entire ship.

SPORTSMANSHIP

HARPER GRIDDERS

THE FOOTBALL team is building up to a great future, gathering experience and developing its players into a high degree of efficiency. One of the most outstanding players was Ted Bratsos who was honored by being selected for the second string of the all city team. Ted has played with the team from its very beginning. He was picked by his team mates to be their able captain. Unfortunately for the team Ted graduates this June. Hyrc was the capable pilot of ship "Harper Eleven." He will be with the team next season. Hedge and Chap fought valiantly in their respective positions. A wonderful job was done by the line, the ones that do much of the work but get little of the honor.

THE SECOND team played in great style through the season, backing up the first team with a willingness and assuredness that carried them through many a hard battle. Much of the credit must go to them.

OUR RESERVES played five games, tying two of them and winning one. The tie games were with Fenger and Hirsch. The victory was over Tilden. The lineup for the reserves is as follows:

R. E., Mezlaiskis; R. T., Kline; R. G., Gazell; C., Kabat; L. G., Klemauskas; L. T., Roddy; L. E., Flynn; Q. B., Collins; F. B., Huff; H. B., Coglianese; H. B., Dwyers, The substitutes were, Howitz, Bruch, Kelps, and Doyle.

BASKETBALL

HARPER'S 1935-36 Cagers enjoyed a very successful season in league competition from a technical standpoint.

THE JUNIORS hit their stride early in the season, winning all of their pre-season games, two of which were over our traditional rival, Lindblom. Emil Cieplak retained his honors last season, scoring more points than any other player. Joe Costa, Captain of this year's five, played at guard during the season. Ray Kouba, George Fink, Lloyd Cieplak, James Kennedy and Ed Wolff were the regulars.

THE SENIOR TEAM, led by Don Murney, Captain, defeated Fenger in the last league game, and then trounced Lindblom's heavies in a post season battle. The Senior squad were helped greatly by the change in semesters, several players becoming eligible which improved the squad tremendously. Thompson, a Freshman, showed great ability and will be a great help in the coming seasons.

HARPER'S ATHLETIC Association, an all school organization, was formed for the purpose of increasing student interest in school sports and to help support Harper's athletic teams. The organization was under the sponsorship of Mr. Freestrom.

EACH MEMBER, in return for the dues paid, was given a pin and an activity card. This card admitted the member to any dance or social the club gave, all practice basketball games, and all swimming meets without further expense.

DUE TO THE CHANGE in the regulations of the schools clubs, the Harper Athletic Association has become one of the divisions of the Hi-Lites and will be directed by a council of Hi-Lites members appointed for this purpose.

GIRLS ATHLETICS

AMONG THE many students at Harper are the peppy members of the Girl's Athletic Association. This semester a new division, the Cabinet, has been added. It is composed of girls who are working for letters. The officers last semester were: Genevieve Fish, president; Celia Poth, vice president; Elizabeth Bailie, secretary; Ann Bratsos, treasurer. This semester Celia Poth heads the club as president with Irene Zemaitis as vice-president, June Anderson, secretary and Ann Bratsos remained treasurer. Miss Anna Schmook is girls' athletic sponsor.

HARPER CHEERLEADERS

BACK OF the student body, encouraging school spirit and creating enthusiasm for school projects, the cheerleaders have been hard at work.

THESE BOOSTERS of the crimson and white have led the cheering at both football and basketball games throughout the year. They have also helped to pep up assemblies from time to time. The handbook which was published this year contains most of the cheers used on these occasions.

AT PRESENT there are seven girls and five boys who belong to the squad of cheerleaders. Their captain is Bob Abell, who has held this position for the past two semesters. Mr. Borchardt organized the group and is the director.

UNFORTUNATELY I was unable to consume such a vast amount so I offered the remains to a gentleman seated near me. When he turned his face to refuse indignantly, I saw he was BEN CACCIATO. I gathered what was left and walked to the open window. As I was about to throw it out, I saw two ragged forms cowering in the shadows beneath. I decided to give them the food rather than throw it away. As they received it with eager hands, I made out the familiar faces of THOMAS FILIPIAK and JOHN ZINKAN. I started to speak to them, but a voice behind me diverted my attention. I turned about and encountered DOROTHY ANDERSON who had been sent by the host to inform me that a place had been found where I could sleep for the night. She took me over to the four other gentlemen who were to be my bedmates. They were HERBERT ARNDT, CHARLES FALLON, MARTIN MULCAHY, and ANTHONY VEPSTAS whom I followed up the short stairs to the mud baked roof, covered with thatch where we were to sleep. It had been partitioned off into rooms with low screens over which I sighted CHARLES BALDWIN taking off his tunic, and ANTON SPETYLA removing his wig with care. Sitting on the edge of the roof were CHARLES BIRGELIS, HENRY ZUSCHLAG and ROBERT MILLER, drinking in the beauty of the Egyptian night. I did not feel sleepy so I joined them. A short distance away to our left loomed the dark pyramids about which uniformed guards circled slowly.

I RECOGNIZED LAWRENCE ROUBIK, EDWARD BOSSMIN, GURDON FLAGG and ALVIN KEMPF. Hurrying down one of the walks leading to the pyramids I sighted four Egyptian women, who I surmised correctly, were friends of the guards. As they emerged into the moonlight and each linked arms with her uniformed friend, I recognized HELENE EROTAS, DOROTHY DIETZ, ETHEL ELY, and ANNA JANE WHITE.

TOWARD OUR RIGHT in a large cleared space, a group of maidens were going through some mystic Egyptian dance in the moonlight.

ON CLOSER inspection, to my surprise, I found they were MARGUERITE OTT, FLORENCE MANDEL, ADELINE LENZ, EVELYN GUNDERSON, MARY JANE JONES, RITA DAVIES, ALIDA EKSTER, ELIZABETH THACKSTON, SHIRLEY SMALE, and ANNE PFEIFFER. I was beginning to get drowsy at this time, so I laid down and went to sleep.

THE NEXT MORNING we all arose early and assembled together again for breakfast. In the light of day, I discovered many more of my old friends. Behind large pieces of corn bread, I discerned the moving jaws of VIOLET BEZIC, ROBERT FITZGERALD, and FRED KING. Consuming with great noise a strange dark liquid from large bowls were ALBERT GREBLIUNAS, and VIVIAN OHLSON, while EDMUND O'DONNELL and HELEN WILSON swallowed dates and figs with a speed that amazed me.

AFTER BREAKFAST I took a reluctant departure of my host and friends and wended my way once more along the streets. I had gone but a few paces when two panic stricken girls ran toward me and threw themselves in my arms. They were my old girl friends ANNAMAE FITZGERALD and ANN GAGER. I looked behind them and perceived a large cobra snake crawling at their heels. Action seemed imperative so I took hold of each and we ran for our lives. Every second he drew nearer until it seemed as if we were lost. Suddenly three tall swarthy figures appeared hurrying toward us with spears clutched in their hands. HILLIARD STRZYNECKI, JOHN JACKLE, and JOHN CARROLL had come to our rescue and saved the day. With sharp quick jabs they reduced the writhing form to lifelessness.

WE THANKED them breathlessly and the girls went on down the street. The boys told me they were on their way to meet their friends, JEANETTE ERNST, ADELINE DI GIACOMO, and FRANCES GRIFFIN.

I RESUMED my walk and was going along at a swift pace when all at once someone called to me from one of the thatched houses along the street. I decided to see who it was and went to the door which was opened immediately by JAMES DAVIS. He greeted me cordially and invited me into a small shabby room where his wife, LUCILLE REA, sat sewing wearily amidst her large family who were playing noisily on the floor. While we were chatting the door opened and ROBERT SANDIN came in followed by three charming girls whom I found to be MARGUERITE VON PERBANDT, ELEANOR PUHR, and LORRAINE LUGOWSKI on closer inspection. Not wanting to intrude on the visit I offered my regrets and took leave. Upon descending the stairs I met a group of jolly girls who called to me and invited me to visit their tombs which were nearing completion. ELSA STONE related to me how she was having the prom scene engraved on hers, ANNE SVEJNOHA and VIOLET RUSSELL told me how they were having their volley ball team drawn on theirs. Closely following were LUCILLE KRIBLEY, ETHEL SPECHT and PEARL HERMANN who were also anxious to tell me of theirs. Interrupted by loud voices from the rear, we stepped aside and watched ROBERT CHILLO, LAVERNE HERBECK, JAMES CUMMINS, MARIAN SNYDER, and HATTIE RIO, skilfully balancing bowls of food upon their heads which were to be placed in the tombs for the dead. As we followed them to the tombs we came upon the inscribers. We stopped to admire the work of VIRGINIA PAUKSTIS, LESTER CARLSON and LILLIAN HORWATH, who were busily inscribing the accounts of CHARLES JOHNSON, WILLIAM WILCOX, FLORENCE SONTAG and HELEN MELDZIUS who were molding statues of prominent Harper athletes. In the cool recess of one of the tombs sat LILLIAN MINARCIK, ESTELLE RAJANSKY, ETHEL McCONNELL, and EVELYN LENSE recording the History of Harper on papyrus rolls.

THE GIRLS said they would have to leave in order to testify at the trial of the mutineers and prisoners of war which was to be held in the open near the Sphinx. ARRIVING AT the Sphinx I looked for someone I knew to sit next to. To my relief I saw FRED LUND, SOPHIA SHIMKUS and GENE GRAHAM sitting near me. I joined them and noticed CATHERINE PLEVA, RUTH SENKPIEL and MARIE MacKENZIE in front of us. Near the platform were PATRICIA SANDSTROM and HATTIE LESCIAUSKAS writing the court proceedings. The trials started as the first band of mutineers were dragged to the platform. I was surprised to see the faces of RAY SANTANGELO, JOHN MAYER, JOHN NAVICKAS, ERNEST CARLSON and JOHN SCHOLER.

THE INTENSE heat of the Egyptian sun caused me to feel faint and as I rose to leave, my mind suddenly sank into oblivion, and I awoke to find myself in the midst of my usual surroundings, back to this world of care and toil.

hunger, GLENN went out in search of food. He was back in a short time and told a tale which made the women's hair stand on end. "Girls, take to the hills and be on the lookout for passing ships!" "I will try to rescue this man and his daughter!" The girls didn't have to be told twice; they were off in a cloud of dust. Creeping through the bush, GLENN returned to the gruesome sight. The natives were so absorbed in the ceremony that they did not notice the intruder. GLENN, seeing his chance, slashed the ropes and whispered to them, "Make a dash for the hills!" As they began their flight, a native woman, MARY TATONE, saw the prisoners fleeing. She gave a warning and immediately their chief ordered, "Your spears, men, and to the hills."

FROM THE nearby hill the women saw the plight of their fellow men. They decided to charge with a storm of rocks. A passing Japanese Seal Poaching vessel sighted the red flannels flying in the breeze. Realizing that something was amiss, CAPTAIN JOHN RYAN ordered BUD O'CONNOR to take a life boat to the shore. The people in distress on the island cried, "We are saved," as the boat approached. SECOND MATE JIM BRATSOS helped the ladies into the boat and made them comfortable. "You are here at your own risk," thundered CAPTAIN RYAN. "This is a smuggler's ship. The entire British fleet has chased us for three long months. We expect to sight them any minute now." Three shots rang out! A voice from the Crow's nest screeched, "The British are coming!" "All sails ahead," shouted the Captain. And the boat slid off the horizon.

The Engineering Department

Ever since its origin twenty-seven years ago, Harper has been under the direction of Mr. John L. McNamara. Its growth from a grammar school, a junior high to a senior high has taken place within these years. Increase in enrollment necessitated many additions to the original building.

Mr. McNamara's avocation is oil and water color painting. He has sold much painted china and gold encrusted work. A committee after examining his paintings voted him an artist's membership in the South Side Art Association.

Members of the Department: J. Ray Borling, Edward M. Smith, John J. Durkin, Burnam Cavanaugh, Joseph Smith, John Pappin, Cerina De Loughary, Mary Garrigan, Minnie Lubbin, Mary Bonnor, Mary Connally.

There Must Be a Reason

Just four years ago, in 1932, The Chief Printing Company was established . . . at a time when business was stagnant, and everywhere the country was beset with the vision of business failures . . . Undaunted we were confident that even with conditions such as they were, there would be a market for a superior service, such as it was our intention to render . . . Our record of continuous growth in spite of economic conditions, is conclusive evidence that we have adhered to our original concept.

Dear Bob:
It's been such fun knowing you and learning to look upon you as a very good friend and do so hope I'll be in some of your classes in the coming semesters.
Remember me as a Jr. pal.
Yours,
